

January 3, 1947.

Dr. W. S. Stone,
Dept. Zoology,
University of Texas,
Austin, Texas.

Dear Dr. Stone,

First, I want to thank you for patiently answering my persistent questioning. What you have told me has pretty well convinced me of the validity of your conclusions on the mutagenic effect of irradiated broth, and the publication of those data will certainly do the same generally.

I am writing primarily to remind you of my request to see a copy of your manuscript when you send it to press. For my own benefit, I should like to revise my review in press— it should be in my hands sometime around the end of February. I am of course also very much interested in Wyss' transformation experiments since Tatum and I are doing the same sort of thing with Boivin's coli strains.

Yours sincerely, and with best regards,

Joshua Lederberg
Assistant Professor of Genetics